U. S. ADVISE TURNS TURK FROM FORMER MINORITIES STAND

CHILD INTERVENES

American Ambassador Shows Ismet Value of World Opinion in Case.

LAUSANNE—Turkey accepts in principle the application to the national minorities in her territory for the inclusion of this subject in the final peace treaty, Ismet Pasha declared Thursday at the near east conference, and also the granting of amnesty to the members of these minorities.

Ambassador Child's frank talk with Ismet Pasha Wednesday on the subject of minorities residing in Turkey is believed to have been the cause for the change in attitude of the Turkish government.

The friendly intervention of the American ambassador at the right moment has convinced the Turkish government of the strength of the world opinion—particularly that of the United States—on the need for a settlement of the minority problem.

Ambassador Child urged Ismet to reconsider his position on the Armenians and other dislodged populations, pointing out that American contributors to relief work in the Near East desired to know that their money would be used for the benefit of the Armenians in permanent homes.

Turkey, said Ismet, likewise agreed in principle to the plan for her seeking admittance to the league of nations.

She refuses, however, the demand for the creation of a national home for the Armenians and the exemption of members of the minorities from military service.

Will John League Turkey will join the League of Nations as soon as peace is signed at Lausanne, Ismet Pasha announced. It was interpreted as meaning that Turkey will accept the league's supervision over the Christian people of Turkey.

Ismet said Turkey was ready to accord the same treatment to minorities as provided in the treaties exchanged between various European countries.

Allied delegations voiced their pleasure at the conciliatory attitude adopted by Turkey and said that justified optimism in the outcome of the conference.

COUNTY IS VICTIM OF PETTY THEFTS

Gasoline and Oil Taken—Quantity of Crushed Rock Missed.

Stealing from the county has been noted in the past few months, to such an extent that County Highway Commissioner Charles E. Moore and Constable Merton Miller, county highway patrolman, are making investigations that may result in arrests. Everything from gasoline and oil to crushed rock and gravel has been missed by the county the past summer and fall.

Most of the petty larceny cases were noted in the various county camps along the Janesville-Evansville concrete highway during its construction this year. Gasoline and oil were taken at various times while the road was being built. Constable Miller was on guard all night at the camp several times during the fall but nothing was missed on those nights nor did he see any signs of trespassing.

The most recent trouble of the county highway department has arisen on county trunk highway C, the Milton Johnston road where seven to nine loads of crushed rock were taken. The supervisors suspected was brought into Janesville this week and appeared informally in Judge H. L. Maxwell's office where he related that he had permission of one of the supervisors to take the crushed rock to fix up a crossroad. It is alleged this was without the knowledge of the highway commissioner.

Another farmer, it is alleged, took some of the county's rock to build a driveway across a ditch lot by county road workers in front of his farm. It is believed the two cases will be adjusted out of court.

A full clerk on the passenger train, whose name has not been ascertained, also was said to have been injured. A relief train from Chippewa Falls, 25 miles west, carrying doctors and nurses, was rushed to the scene. The cause of the collision has not been ascertained.

NEGRO WHO BROKE GAME LAW WHILE IN JAIL, IN AGAIN

Leo Williams, the dusky gentleman from Beloit, who last summer was arrested while a prisoner at the county jail for catching a black bass out of season, is back in the county jail. However, Williams is not expressing any desire to go fishing through the ice. He is more concerned with the complaint charged against him in the Beloit municipal court for alleged larceny.

It is claimed that Williams and another negro went into a store with the pretense of buying a suit of clothes. Williams' companion left and so did a bolt of cloth. Beloit police are searching for the other colored gentleman and Williams is in jail.

CITY GAY WITH HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Business District Is Zone of Infection from Christmas "Bug."

That rather indefinable, yet ever contagious holiday bug, the "Christmas spirit," is in our midst, with the local downtown district as the zone of greatest infection. Every merchant believes that he has the proper "gift for her" or "gift for him" from the jeweler to the hardware dealer.

Display windows have for days been flamboyant with gaily colored wares nestled in among the many favors associated with the season of Yuletide. The red and green, long an emblem of the Christmas time, decorates many a coat and gown and incidentally of course, tells the price of the garment. Gowns of evening wear, suggestive of the season, are being shown in many of the stores along with fur coats greatly reduced in price.

MOST IMPORTANT FARMERS MEETING NOW IN SESSION

COOPERATIVE MARKETING COUNCIL TO PLAN PROGRAM.

HARDING HELPS

Other Natural and State Farmer Conventions Outline Future Policies.

Washington, D. C.—What its sponsors characterize as the most important movement for farmers ever inaugurated was launched here Thursday at the assembling of the first national council of farmers cooperative marketing associations.

The program included a complete review of the cooperative marketing movement in America, featuring the handling of tobacco, fruit, grain, dairy products and other farm products. Other general topics of discussion were cooperative financing and rural credit legislation; common problems of cooperative marketing associations and how to handle them; problems of each commodity group and cooperative education of the farmers and the public.

Harding in Support

President Harding in a letter read today at the opening session of the national council of farmers cooperative marketing associations, declared he knew of "no single movement that promises more help towards the present relief and the permanent betterment of agricultural conditions than the cooperative organization of farmers to market their products."

Chicago—Delegates to the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation will meet today at the administration's ship subsidy bill now pending in congress when a resolution opposing the bill was introduced.

Abolishment of the national labor law is favored by the great majority of farmers, C. L. Hutchings of the transportation department of the federation declared.

Greater development of transportation facilities is necessary, he said, declaring highways should be used as extensively as possible in marketing crops; waterways used where they provide a better means of outlet to markets; and waterways completed as soon as possible.

Abstract Being Brought Down to Date for Transfer to City.

City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham and City Engineer C. V. Kerch are cooperating in completing the purchase by the city of Riverside park for $25,000, as voted by the board of directors, Monday.

Mr. Cunningham has instructed the agent for the 13-acre tract to have the abstract brought down to date and to show a clear title before the final purchase is made. The balance is to be paid in installments, $5,000 in 1923 and $5,000 in 1925.

"There is little doubt but what we can obtain a clear title," said Mr. Kerch.

Meanwhile, City Engineer Kerch is making arrangements for a topographical survey of the property which will require much time. This will be completed by his department and maps will be prepared to show the best locations for roads. The city plan commission will aid in laying them out.

A quarter-mile frontage on the Janesville-Evansville concrete highway is available for entry purposes to the park.

17 Are Cooked to Death by Steam in Train Crash

BULLETIN. (By Associated Press)

Houston, Tex.—The total number of dead as a result of the wreck Wednesday night at Humble was brought to 17 shortly after noon when three more victims died in local hospitals. Of the three to die, late Thursday morning, two are white men—Albert Pichard and Edgar Randle, both of Houston. The casualty list shows six white men and eleven negroes killed.

Caught in Flood of Live Steam

Houston, Tex.—Seven persons were cooked to death by live steam and approximately 35 others burned, many probably fatally, when a Houston East and West Texas passenger train sidetracked a switch engine at Humble Wednesday night.

The seven met death when a two inch steam pipe, torn loose from a cylinder head by the collision, swept around and crashed through a window of the forward smoker of the passenger train.

The live steam train transformed the smoker, filled with negroes, into a cauldron. Conductor William Campsey, in the smoker at the moment of impact, died instantly. His face and body were cooked by the steam until he was almost unrecognizable. Mr. Young, the train newsboy, also died instantly.

The five others who were killed were two negro men and three negro women, passengers in the coach.

"Drifting" of the switch engine from a point near the depot to a spot in the block area, where the engine converged with the main line, was blamed for the accident.

The cylinder on the right side of the passenger train and that on the left of the freight engine were torn loose by the impact. A two inch steam pipe, which ran from the switch engine's steam chest to its cylinder head, straightened, then swung around and crashed through a window of the forward smoker of the passenger train.

Hero Saves Lives

One railroad man who refused to give his name, catapulted himself into the burning block area, where a seething cauldron, and stumbled the entire length of the car, breaking windows. As a result of his bravery, the steam poured out of the car and relieved victims sufficiently for them to be revived when taken out.

TO INSTALL FISHER MACHINERY, JAN. 1

$300,000 Building to Be Enclosed by Christmas Day, Prediction.

Christmas day will see the new $300,000 Fisher body company plant in Janesville. The company has enclosed its present plant to go on to new quarters, Thursday.

Representatives of the Fisher company were here Wednesday and announced that the new plant, the remarkable progress, and stated that installation of machinery there will be started Jan. 1.

The manager has not been named, but is expected about that date to take charge of work preliminary to production. The new Fisher plant at Flint, Mich., will be running by New Year's, it is expected.

Plant manager, The Flint and Janesville Chevrolet plants are the first where the Fisher body company and Chevrolet have been so closely connected.

Work on covering the building with a cement tile roof is progressing rapidly and a few more days should see it completed.

To cope with the cold, steam pipes have been laid on the floor through the center of the building, heating it for 40 feet on both sides and making possible laying the cement floor, which will start Friday. There is no risk to complete the floor construction, only enough so that storage room for the wooden blocks which will be laid over the cement will be provided. They are expected to arrive Friday.

Unless some final work has to be done, the men will not work this coming Sunday, Mr. Houghton said. Freight cars bringing the glass for the windows are arriving. The trial of the new plant is being completed by Christmas. The plant is small but the building has been so constructed as to give maximum light.

After another hour of sleep they were routed out of bed again at 3:50 a. m. by a pounding on the main door. The next man down the pole found two youths desiring to use the telephone. Thinking it was probably an accident case, the firemen let them in, only to hear them call a taxicab to meet them at the depot. The youths were then threatened and cursed but there was no action—only Chief C. J. Murphy's attention, Thursday, that the fire department telephones are not public stations, especially during the night.

WHY I LIKE JANESVILLE

People living here for years sometimes become so used to the facilities of the city that they are blinded to them. Thus when one goes to another city then comes back and tells about what an excellent library we have, what good and new books can be obtained and how the service and facilities are much better than in cities even larger than Janesville, this is the only advantage. For Janesville has an excellent library. Good judgment in the purchase of the books instead of a few of the best books in the city, the courteous and prompt service of the members of the staff, the library is always a pleasant place to go.

News for Farmers

Farm Bureau Official Information

MARKET FOR SHEEP TO BE FAVORABLE

W. G. Miles, Evansville, Declares Shortage of Stock Helping Market.

Good sheep on every Rock county farm would be a money maker for the farmers.

So say the men in position to know something about the future of the sheep market. They are a good price for wool, mutton and breeding sheep for a number of years due to the acute shortage of breeding stock and range flocks in the United States. Sheep came back strong but it will be a number of years before the business will be able to fill up the depleted ranks caused by the near wreck of the grazing business two years ago.

When the sheep market started dropping, there was an immense surplus of stock. Money was tight in the western range states and breeders hurried their stock to market. Instead they knocked the bottom out of the market. Men well posted upon the sheep industry feel that the country has passed through the valley of depression and the sheep business is moving in the direction of more normal and stable conditions. Those who had faith and held on to their breeding stock realized big profits when the market came back. No other branch of livestock has paid so well in the last year as has sheep.

Good Time to Buy

Now is a good time for the farmer to either start a small flock or improve the flock already started.

"I feel confident that the sheep market is going to be good for at least two or three years because of the shortage of breeding stock," declared W. G. Miles, Evansville, who has had remarkable sales this fall. Rock county is the home of prize winning sheep and probably no live stock breeder in Wisconsin won as many fair ribbons this year as has Miles. He raised four breeds of sheep—Shropshires, the most popular breed in the country; Ramboullies, the hardest and vigorous; the wools, Southdowns and Hampshire.

Between Miles and the Broughton Brothers, Albany, Rock county about made a clean sweep of the sheep prizes at the state fair. What those two did not win Bill Crall and son came in for a good share.

After showing at Wisconsin and Minnesota, Miles took two heads out on a southern circuit. One head went to Texas and came home out of condition for showing at the international. Miles, however, took second on a circuit out of the lamb, which is a real test of breeding ability. His cross-breeds, sired by a Southdown ram with Shropshire ewes.

Easy to Keep

Sheep require but little care and feed. They are great to help a farmer to eradicate noxious weeds, keeping his farm clean of rank growths. A small flock can practically live off the vegetation on the side of the road, the farm waste and woodlot. They convert waste into money.

The success of Miles is rather unusual. He is one of the few live stock breeders who actually makes money showing stock.

He started raising blooded sheep in 1902 on a farm in Green county. He came to Rock county six years ago and now has the "City View" farm near Evansville. Previously he raised registered stock. Miles raised grade sheep for 10 years.

Considerable sheep from Rock county have been shipped to foreign countries. Miles recently sold 13 heads of Ramboullie rams to the Wyoming ranch of the King Brothers and a Shropshire ram to the Oregon College of Agriculture.

Buy Good Rams

"A good ram is more than half the flock for the sire puts fleeces of wool and better mutton on the flock," declares Miles. "A good many farmers make a mistake of not buying good stock when starting out."

Raising sheep for the mutton market it is highly important at all times to select and invest in a good ram, one of the mutton breeds. It is his success on the fair circuit and reputation, Miles is now "practically sold out of surplus stock. The sheep of the other leading herds here have been in active demand during the year.

Return during the last year on sheep show that southern Wisconsin farmers make a profit on small flocks of sheep to keep their farms clean of weeds if for nothing else. This investment is comparatively small.

Breeders of the county are going to cooperate for the success of the Rock county junior sheep club. With such championship foundation stock as there is in the county, Rock should have a large and winning junior sheep club. One year a carload lot of western ewes was distributed over the county among the boys and girls and they are still the best stock among some of the present flocks.

ADOPT CLUB PLAN

Members of the Janesville Lions club adopted the plan of J. A. Craig, chairman of the Rock county junior club committee to purchase 10 registered pigs for distribution among the boys and girls in the city. The plan is to interest the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and others in Janesville in the new plan proposed to promote a progressive junior pig club.

The new plan in addition to developing the junior pig club will tend to bring a number of city residents in more friendly relation with farmers and children in the rural district. There will be a meeting held at the call of Chairman Craig at which representatives of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and other organizations will attend to join in the program outlined for Rock county.

PIAN COUNTY SALE

During the meeting of the Rock county Poland-China Breeders' association meeting to be held in the court house Saturday, members will plan for a county sale. The sale will be one of the projects to be considered, in the Poland-China county development program.

MAIM ASSOCIATION

Dane county has added one more cow testing association to her credit. 24 farmers joining in the Verona association. Officers of the association are as follows: A. J. Detweiler, president; John Fluckiger, vice president; R. W. Gust, secretary-treasurer, and Ernest Model and C. B. Mathews, directors.

SEER CATTLE RAIN

A committee has been named by officers of the Wisconsin Livestock association to see what can be done for the erection of a new cattle barn for the state fair. It is hoped to build a new building so that one barn will house the dairy breeds and another the beef breeds. Also the fair will have a new exhibit building an eight day state fair instead of six.

FAIR ASSOCIATION

The Holstein breeders in LaFayette county have organized an association. The executive committee will be elected at a meeting in Burlington, Dec. 15. The breeders also urged the appointment of a county agent.

STREET FORCES READY FOR WINTER

Start New Storm Sewer and Other Cold Weather Activities.

Winter activities of the street department have been started under direction of Street Commissioner Thomas B. McKune.

One of the chief jobs will be the building of a 200-foot stretch of 24-inch storm sewer on South Third street in the ravine between Forest Park boulevard and Ringold street. Mr. McKune placed the order for the work, and the work is to be carried out despite cold weather as little trouble is expected in excavation, the soil being mostly gravel.

Ranvina are being made by city workmen to the broken and sunken sections of brick pavement on South Main street, between St. Lawrence avenue and Pacific street, especially on the east side of the car tracks. The bad bricks are being torn out and replaced with whole ones and fallen portions are being raised up.

With winter here, apparently to stay, the street commissioner's men have gathered up all the refuse boxes from the business district for storage in the city's old barn on North Jackson street. Park benches are also being picked up to be stored for the winter. The refuse cans are more for summer use; it is explained, because in the winter little street sweeping is done, the only regular clean-up work being that of a man who picks up papers.

In preparation for the winter edge of icy sidewalks and streets, Mr. McKune has several loads of lifted sand available near the city hall and expects to make full use of it when the occasion demands. Last year there were many days when sanding of the walks was found advisable to avoid accidents. Walkers, shovels and men are in readiness in case of snow blockades.

Although plans for fixing up Riverside park for the public are still indefinite, Mr. McKune believes it will not be a great job to build a good entrance road.

Abandon Plans for City Law on Meat Inspection

No city ordinance will be drawn up requiring inspection of meat butchered in this city, according to a statement sent to all butchers by the health department. A state law is strict about butchering, specifying that none can be done in certain territories, so that the board of health will not enter this line of work. The board has a new ordinance concerning inspection. The letter sent out is as follows:

"Your attention is called to section 1418 of the revised statutes of Wisconsin. It is the law that forbids any slaughtering within one-eighth mile of any public highway, dwelling, or building used for business, unless such business is conducted under federal supervision. The violation is a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of from $10 to $500 or imprisonment of not more than six months."

Wisconsin Rapids—Alex. Perodin, Wisconsin Rapids, has announced he will seek organized aid from the Associated Press and Wisconsin newspapers throughout the country in a final effort to locate his son, Emerson, 16, who disappeared from his home here last May. The last word from the youth was received on a postal card dated at Pittsburgh, Pa. Young Perodin, who was third of a group of Wisconsin Rapids boys, all of whom disappeared about the same time from their homes, would have been a senior in high school this year.

BUILDING HOUSING ILLEGAL BOOZE IS PUBLIC NUISANCE

Madison—A building in which intoxicants are illegally stored or sold may be prosecuted as a public nuisance and be abated, J. B. Mosser, assistant attorney general, ruled today in an opinion to Orrin H. Lavaben, district attorney of Chippewa county.

He advised that the district attorney has authority to start an action to abate a nuisance in any circuit court, and to prosecute the case without direction from the attorney general.

He also held that it is not necessary to prove damages to establish a nuisance, declaring that the existence of non-existence of individual damages is not a necessary element to consider.

"STRICTLY BUSINESS"

Always did have a snappish, repellent sound—this relic of an antiquated period of business thought and practice. Whenever we hear a would-be efficient smart Aleck say "strictly business" we feel that he would be nearer right if he called it restricted business!

It is the happy, human side of modern business, its inspirations, its enthusiasms, its stimulating human contacts—that makes it, not a mechanical means to an end, but a glorious and heartening phase of our lives.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLY WINNER

If I Were a Farmer—

I WOULD find a ready market for my used implements. I would get from selling equipment I could not use. I would buy, at a saving, the tools and machinery I really needed.

Other farmers would need a plow or harrow or tiller or tractor or some other farm implement that I might have to sell. On the other hand, they would have a plow or a harrow or a wagon that I would want.

I would find the farmer who wanted what I had, as well as the men who had what I wanted, through Gazette Want Ads.

Think of the money I could save by this trading—this buying and selling at a profit.

Gazette Want Ads would be as profitable for me to use as for other farmers. And other farmers are using them now with satisfaction.

Mrs. Palmer Hostess—Mrs. Fred Palmer, 312 Walker street, will be hostess Friday afternoon to a sewing club. Eight women will be guests.

LIONS PLAN SECOND LADIES' NIGHT MEET

The recent Ladies' Night, having been highly successful, discussion of another such event in the future was held at the Lions' club meeting at the Grand hotel, Wednesday noon. The birthday of A. J. Pettit was observed and the prize donated by C. V. Kersch, was won by Jesse Earle.

In his talk, which was the feature of the luncheon meeting, J. A. Craig pointed out the need for co-operation of the businessmen in helping the farmer. He said that 92 per cent of all land in Rock county is owned by farmers, and that if good returns were to be received from it it must be put on a business basis. He declared this could be done most effectively through the junior club work in which the coming generation is shown the advantages of pure bred livestock and grains. He suggested that Lion club members purchase a pig for some farm boy or girl to raise and that they follow the process of the animal under the care of that child. No money would be lost by the member for from the first litter of pigs the donor would have privilege of taking a pig to replace the one he purchased.

J.M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

Hello! Mrs. Smith

SORRY you've had such a time to get me, but I've been Christmas Shopping all day.

Just had wonderful luck. You say you are making a great many gifts. Clever lady! It's a mighty good way. I just saw lots of attractive things to be embroidered in the Fancy Goods section at Bostwick's, and so reasonable.

WHAT are you going to give Dorothy? Furs? I think you're awfully sensible to give her something to wear. Only $10 at BOSTWICK'S.

That's reasonable.

I GOT RUTH A COAT. I got it at BOSTWICK'S too for only $9.00. She'll be delighted with the fur collar.

You can't think of a thing to give Aunt Margaret? Why don't you get one of those nice Blanket Bath Robes at BOSTWICK'S at $5.95? I think they're simply wonderful at that price.

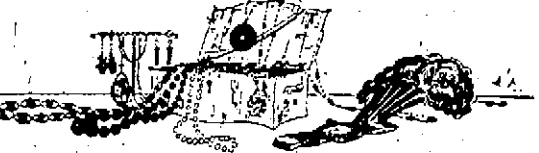

I MUST tell you. I struck the greatest bargain in Camisoles and Brassiers at BOSTWICK'S. Radium Silk Camisoles and Brassieres at a beautiful Satin Brassiere at $1.50.

I felt just as you do, thought I would remember the girls I play bridge with and some at the club, but didn't want to spend a great deal.

WHY DON'T you go to BOSTWICK'S? I did. They have wonderful Gift Handkerchiefs at 50c to $2.50, and made-up ribbon novelties, in Garters, Camisole Straps, Vanity Bags that are only 35c to $1.25. Really their ribbon department is just overflowing with suggestions.

And Beateboxes of your favorite movie stars at 20c to $1.00. Imagine!

I PICKED up any number of Bracelets, Necklaces, Earrings there for $1.00 and $1.50, really effective things.

I think it's a good idea to have something on hand for last minute gifts and you know these novelties are appropriate for anyone.

Awfully glad you called.

GOOD BYE.

AN ORGANIZED CHARITY FORCE.
There is a movement on by the county board
to change the present method of poor relief from a general county supervision to the old plan of each town and representative unit caring for its own cases. It had proper supervision of the poor under the all-county system there would be little objection to the present method. As it is, relief is whittled to the lowest possible penny and skimping is the general principle applied. A few sacks of coal, a few pounds of oatmeal and potatoes are about the usual dose to a person requiring help. It is the unusual thing for the county relief fund to be used for medical aid and then only after the most earnest representations of dire necessity.

All of which brings us to the need here in Janesville for a coordinated plan for relief and a central clearing house and investigation office for relief cases. Two years ago in an emergency such a plan was put in force for a while. The United Relief was a good thing then and could be made a sound, substantial effective organization again. In another column will be found a report of a meeting held Wednesday for the care of those in Janesville who are unable to enjoy Christmas cheer and the beginning of a co-ordinated effort to centralize all activity in that direction under one, general committee. That is a step in the direction of still further organization. If the city is to have charge of the poor and the relief work is again to be placed in the city's charge, it will be necessary also for the private relief to be organized in a better and more business-like manner. We have the proper agencies and all that is needed is a point of contact one with another.
There is no place in the functions of government where there is greater need for good executive ability, a clear brain, an understanding mind,
and a human sympathy as in the administration of poor relief. Whenever such an administration is based on a hard-boiled attitude and conducted by mechanical rules, it fails in its purpose.

If a Janesville man got two years for wife desertion
how much will the runaway sultan get for deserting 150 wives?

"THE MESSIAH"
Ever since the Messiah was sung in Dublin in 1741 and King George was over there to hear the first rendition of the immortal oratorio, it has been heard in a hundred places or more each year to the satisfaction of the audiences. There is a wonderful completeness about the music of the oratorio and when the Hallelujah Chorus was sung in Dublin, the king, at that time the arbiter of good usage, rose to his feet in tribute to the solemnity of the composition and the audience followed suit. To several thousand people of Janesville and Rock county the first rendition
of the Messiah will be next Tuesday or at Milton Monday night. The Messiah is the first of the musical events of the winter arranged by the Apollo club and will be followed by others. These are things which add much to the musical reputation of the city and call public attention here.

Rock county has a larger number of hogs than usual. This does not include the auto road breed.

PUNISHMENT FOR BEING LOYAL.
One of the reasons why Pierce Butler, named by the president for the supreme bench, is being opposed, finds its way to the public by the presence of William A. Schaper as a witness against the appointee and a pleader against confirmation. Schaper failed to convince the Board of Regents of the University of Minnesota in 1917, that he was loyal to America. He was at the time a professor of political science in the University and Mr. Butler was a member of the board, voting for the dismissal of the professor.
Dr. Schaper was before the regents and was given an opportunity to say whether he was supporting the United States or whether he was not loyal to his country in time of war. He was unable to do so and the regents said that "his attitude of mind whether due to conscientious considerations
or otherwise and his expressed unwillingness to aid the United States in the present war render him unfit and unable to discharge the duties of
professor of political science in the university."
In another resolution it was declared that teachers in the university should be loyal and Dr.
Schaper was accordingly let out.

Now with a senator elected from Minnesota
of much the same mind as Dr. Schaper and supported also by Sen. La Follette whose position in regard to loyalty has been so repeatedly and emphatically expressed in Wisconsin during the last

to register his objections to a loyal citizen as un-preme court of the United States. Had Pierce

which goes to show that anyone who was loyal to the nation during the war must look out hereafter
if he be a candidate for office.

SUPREME COURT RELAXES

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The most austere and dignified body in the United States unquestionably is the supreme court.

The popular conception is of a grave group of elderly gentlemen who think only in terms of law
and who speak a good deal of the time in obscure Latin phrases. The supreme court is visualized by the average American as a remote realm where technicalities of torts and trespasses, of writs and injunctions, hold sway to the exclusion of homely
every day affairs.

But occasionally something occurs to emphasize the fact that members of this high court are like other men and that the supreme court is a part of the every day world.

Such an occurrence was furnished the other day when the justices of the supreme court, dressed in flowing black robes of office and invested with all the dignity and solemnity that official-can muster, hurried down their opinion in the case of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad company, petitioner, versus David Fruechter, an infant, by Jennie Fruechter, his guardian ad litem, and the connected case of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, petitioner, versus Sam Fruechter.

With all this imposing title, furnished gravely
with Latin terms, the opinion is nothing more than the rather pathetic story of a little boy who went bird-nesting and got hurt. The grave, judicial opinion might be printed on the children's page of a newspaper or inserted in a child's book, for it is just a simple story. No one could tell it more simply than the dignified member of the court who wrote it—Justice McReynolds, former attorney general of the United States.

Dispensing with any legal or otherwise involved
phraseology, the justice begins his opinion, as if he were writing the simplest story.

"Since 1908," he says, in the official opinion.
"One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, New York
city, has been carried over and across the tracks
of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad by a public municipal steel truss bridge of a standard construction. The bridge is 64 feet wide, 279 feet long and is formed of posts, beams, girders, or ceters, connected and strengthened by trellis or lattice work. The top girders, or beams, are 23 feet above the street. The local law imposes upon the railroad the duty of maintaining the framework of the municipality is required to keep the roadway in repair."

"Fastened to the top girder at the end of the bridge are two upright steel lattice towers, posts or struts. Cross arms attached to these, six feet above their bases, support bare wires carrying electric current used for operating trains. The nearest wire is 13 inches from the strut.

"With considerable difficulty and some danger active boys can climb to the highest parts of the bridge. They did often climb on it; some reached the struts.

"They were frequently chased away by a policeman and the railroad guard, and seen endeavoring to have understood on the fact that was for-bidden, when a corner of the bridge there was a noticed board displaying the words 'Live Wires.
Danger. Keep Off.'"

Between these lines one can read that the justice fully understood that, to the "active boy,"
the occasional presence of the policeman and the very sign itself made the game of climbing the bridge more fascinating. He proceeds:

"In June, 1916, the plaintiff, David Fruechter,
eight years old, by using the trellis work, climbed from the street to the top of the bridge in quest of a bird's nest. He saw a bird on the wire above it, and to catch it, he climbed up the strut and reached out; the bird flew away; his hand touched
the wire and severe injuries resulted."

One can read through this paragraph all the grave justice's appreciation of the romance of active boyhood. The opinion continues:

"At the time of the accident the boy was attending school." The justice mentions this to indicate that there was a fair assumption that the boy could read the warning sign.

"He further states," says the opinion, "that before climbing on the bridge he, looked to see whether a policeman was present and admitted that if one had been there he would not have gone up."

"The court below accepted the theory that the jury could have found the structure was well known to be both dangerous and attractive to the children and that failure to supply proper guard,
human or mechanical, constituted negligence
within the meaning of the railroad company versus Stout, 17 Wall. 587, and Union Pacific Railway company versus McDonald, 152 U. S. 262."

The justice gives the impression of making every effort to exonerate the child from responsibility. He proceeds:

"In United Zinc and Chemical company versus Britt, we pointed out the theory on which liability may exist for injuries suffered by an infant,
although the circumstances would give no cause of action to an adult. Infants have no greater right to go on other people's land than adults and the mere fact that they are infants imposes no duty on landowners to expect them to prepare for their safety. . . . While it is plain that temptation is not invitation, it may be held that knowingly to establish a trap for the purpose of a venture of an age when they follow a bait as mechanically as a fish, something that is certain to attract them, has the legal effect of an invitation to them, although not to an adult."

Try as he will to give the child the best of it,
the justice must return to the common-sense
practice of every day. After all, the justice concludes, railroads must carry the food which men and women can for their children and so it is a part of the hazards of life that active boys who can climb to the highest struts sometimes may get hurt. The justice concludes:

"Considering the peculiar circumstances of the present case, it is clear that if the plaintiff had been an adult he could not recover; and we are unable to find any sufficient evidence from which the jury could have properly concluded that the railroad company, either directly or by implement, invited or licensed him to climb upon the strut to a point from which he could touch the bare wire 30 feet above the street. The motion for an instructed verdict should have been granted.
The judgment of the court below is reversed
and the case remanded to the district court for further proceedings in conformity with this opinion."

All of which means little Davy loses his case
and cannot collect damages from the railroad company which owned the live wire, but the opinion proves also that even the grave and solemn supreme court takes into consideration all the circumstances of boys' escapades and follows the line of common sense as well as Latin phrases.

proposes to regulate the dance halls and make them something besides slinks of iniquity and social unrestraint. Here is still another example for the towns and villages. How many parents know just what happens at these dances between darkness and dawn and do they know that most of the dances are not regulated in any way excepting and save by that element which brooks no
regulation other than the strong arm of the law?

It is a good time to begin right now. Brown county has had to take drastic measures to curb the dance hall evil. What about Rock county generally?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

GET UP!

In the good old days of the long ago
in the home unbroken we used to know,
When never a vacant chair we kept
And never one tear of grief we'd wept.
Then we were roused from our cozy beds
By father who shouted, "You sleepy heads!
Get up! Get up!" as he passed each door,
"Get up at once, for I'll call no more!"

We'd answer him in a drowsy way,
"Yes, in a minute," we'd wake to say.
But just as soon as he'd passed doors,
Singing a snatch of his morning song,
We'd all fall back where the bed was warm
In the place which fitted each youthful form,
And go to sleep till there came a shout:
"Get up or I'll come and pull you out!"

He'd stand at the foot of the stairs and call:
"Get up! You sleepy heads, one and all!
Your mother's been down for an hour or two,
The day is here and there's work to do,
There'll be trouble up there's you don't jump
out."

And promptly begin to stir about!
Then sometimes he'd come with a rush and sweep.
The covers away and banish sleep.

Who knows when the last long sleep comes on
And the morning of earthly life have gone,
And we who were children so long ago
Are wrapped in slumber the angels know.
Perhaps we shall open our drowsy eyes
In a world of wonder and glad surprises
And find at the foot of the golden stair
The Father, waiting and calling there.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. HORTON

IT'S A GRAND OLD WORLD.

Gunmen are plenty, shooting up the place,
Statesmen are plenty, saving the race,
Prices are again, money very tight,
Photographs are playing jazz, day and night,
Forgers are a-workin' 'ravin' of the checks,
There are quite a lot of automobile wrecks,
Income tax is holle'n' loud and long,
Many Wall Street bankers are wrong,
Burglars are a-bol'n' the small cities,
Fighting out the bottle in vans and drays,
People gettin' married and lookin' for war,
Don't know what they are a-gettin' married for,
Men still chase the ponies—still they bet,
Women are a-singin' of the good old set.

People are a-dancin', shakin' of the shim,
Light of true refinement is a-burnin' dim,
Cashiers disappearin' and don't come back,
We're travellin' to Hades on a slippery track,
People are a-spendin' more than they can earn,
Luxury and ease is now their chief concern,
Rents are goin' higher, salaries are cut,
Business is gettin' in an awful rut.

Taxes are a-grow'n', mortgages increase,
Near East's a-burnin', and there ain't no peace,
Everybody's yearnin' for the good old times,
Farm boys are a-turin' the farm boys down,
Girls are gettin' savvy, boys are gettin' tough,
Our manners and customs are gettin' durned
rough.

Slaze is on the hummer, movies on the blink,
Folks are makin' today the kitchen sink,
Laws are bein' busted, liberty has quit,
We're on the tologogon, not a doubt of it,
Goin' out of business and our flag is furled—
BUT—

Everything considered, it's a grand old world.
I never saw a murder-er,
I never want to see one;
But, even when such crimes occur,
I'd rather see than be one. HERA.

Who's Who Today

TIMOTHY HEALY.
Slightly less astounding than his appointment
was the precedent-smashing method by which Timothy Healy was introduced into the office of governor-general of Ireland.

After years of strife between Ireland and Britain, in which Healy has been promi-nently identified sometimes
as a martyr and sometimes as the most hated man in Ireland, the Free State became a reality.

The naming of Healy to the post of governor-general was nothing less than a sensation. Then King George cast precedent to the winds
and announced that for the first time in history the formality of kissing the king's hand and the royal robes
before assuming office as the formal acceptance of the post
would be dispensed with.

Instead Healy became governor-general on the receipt of cabled orders
from King George, received at his Dublin residence.

Healy started his political career as a secretary to Parnell. Later he became estranged, politically and developed into his bitterest opponent.

For nearly thirty-eight years Healy sat in the British parliament as a Nationalist delegate.
During that period he represented various constituencies.

At all times a radical independent, a master of parliamentary practice with commanding presence, he was a forceful speaker and a personal friend to his Irish colleagues. But whether they agreed with Healy or not all admired his ability.

"He is a lawyer by profession, highly educated
and a brilliant writer."

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY-YEARS AGO

Dec. 14, 1882.—A committee of the Janesville
Electric Light company have commenced carrying the city for the purpose of making contracts for furnishing the electric light, and are meeting with good success. The company proposes to furnish one arc light at 15 cents per hour, the parties being made to pay for two hours per night, whether used or not.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 14, 1892.—There is a rumor that another fast train from Chicago will be put on the Northwestern, coming through here at 4 a. m., starting the first of the year.—F. S. Winslow will open his new grocery store Thursday. He has secured 500 square feet of space at the corner of "Front-Front" at the Myers theater
tonight.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 14, 1902.—Archibald Galbraith is here on a visit from Scotland to see his brother, Alexander, who is selling at 75 for Rockton and $10 for the best anthracite. Among the bargains offered in stores here is 23 pounds of sugar and one sack of flour for $2. Butter sells at 27 cents per pound.—A. F. Lee was chosen head of the local G. A. R. Post last night. E. O. Kimberly is chaplain.

TEN YEARS AGO

Dec. 14, 1912.—When the present plans for remodeling the Y. M. C. A. building, now more than ten years old, are carried out, this city will have one of the finest and best-equipped buildings in the country for a city of this size. Construction at the Mercantile hotel is practically completed, and interior work will probably start
next week.

Personal Health Service

THE MEDICINE CURBOARD

Oil of turpentine (also called spirits of turpentine) is not crude turpentine but a pure product of distillation of turpentine. The common turpentine may be used externally,
but only the distilled oil or spirits
should be kept in the medicine cur-
board.

In many conditions accompanied with colic or inflammation, and especially when there is much gas present in the stomach, the application of turpentine as a counter irritant is a relief. It is best applied in the form of a stupor, as follows:

"Put a piece of flannel into a dish
of water, wet it and hold it over the stomach, and lift the flannel out in a towel, wring out the excess of water by twisting the towel, then sprinkle
over the flannel several drops of oil
of turpentine and quickly apply to the belly, allowing it to remain until the skin reddens or the patient complains of burning. It should then be removed and no more turpentine applied. Although the oil may be applied by rubbing it in, it is better to put it in a cloth and hold it over the stomach, and twist and wring out
the stupor."

Turpentine is a good counter irritant to apply for inflammation within the chest. It is best diluted with two or three times its volume of olive oil,
and may be rubbed on the chest of an adult. For a child, camphorated oil is preferable.

Turpentine is popularly esteemed as an antiseptic or disinfectant for fresh linens, but it is inferior to tincture
of iodine for that purpose.

It is a parasiticide, and the oil of turpentine mixed with about 10 times
its volume of vasoline or lard may be applied to ringworm, dandruff, itchy scalp or too or ground itch and other parasitic affections. Pure oil of turpentine is sometimes a valuable internal vermifuge against "stomach"
worms (round or threadlike worms),
and against tapeworm, but the dose
to be effective, must be large, and therefore it is not safe to take without medical attendance.

Turpentine is a poison if taken in large quantities. It causes intense irritation, sometimes inflammation
and bleeding of the kidneys.

Certain individuals are very sensi-
sitive to turpentine and suffer violent effects from inhaling turpentine
in a room heavily laden with it, the vapor, nausea, dizziness, pressure or fullness in the head, painful irritation of the urinary tract, sometimes erythema of the skin.

December?
Answer—No.

Is Housework Work?
Please tell me whether a woman
who does all her household except washing and scrubbing, and other exercise or gymnasium work to keep her fit and well? (C. J.)

Answer—You raise a dangerous

limited sense, yes. A woman who regularly does all her household work needs some general exercise every day. In very depraved cases perhaps ten minutes of any kind of exercise
of sections from the Brady symphony will iron out the kinks and smooth out the wrinkles.

Q. In a huge drum corps of 20 members what is the proportion of instruments? (H. L. E.)

A. A member of the United States Marine band says that probably the division would be 12 bugles or trumpets, seven snare drums, one bass drum and cymbals.

Q. What is the difference between the prohibition amendment and the Volstead law? (M. M.)

A. The eighteenth amendment, known as the prohibition amendment, is now part of the constitution.
The Volstead act is an act passed by congress over the president's veto for the purpose of providing a means of enforcing the eighteenth amendment
and defining what constitutes intoxicating liquors.

Q. In how many cases are people executed in proportion to the number of murders? (F. L.)

A. In 1885 there was one execution to 167 murders in the United States.
According to the murder statistics of Chicago Tribune, during the seven years from 1912 to 1918 there were 59,377 murders. The rate of murders to executions in 1918 was 60 to 1.

Q. When was the small Indian head

A. It was first made in 1859.

Q. How old is E. Phillips Oppenheim? (H. O. C.)

A. He is 56 years old.

Q. Can the adjective straight be compared? (J. K. R.)

A. Straight cannot be compared any more than the words round, perfect or unique.

Q. Why did Caesar use the expression "veni, vidi, vici?"
A. This epigrammatic statement was made in the account of an expedition into Pontus. It was not in connection with the Gallic wars, as it is often ascribed.

Q. How was the first woman to be ordained as a minister? (A. T. M.)

A. The first woman preachers were Quakers, since women have from the organization of the Society of Friends
shared an equal voice in all matters of speaking. The Rev. Antoinette Brown was the first woman in America, and probably in the world, to be ordained as a Congregationalist minister. Later she became a Unitarian. She was graduated from Oberlin college in 1820.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters. Pandora, Nicholson, she lives with her high spirited cousin, Gladys, and her Aunt Maude and Uncle Peter Nicholson, as a sort of a poor relation servant. Her father, Jim, is also employed by Peter. Gladys is accepted and neglected by the little circle in Norris City over which Gladys rules. Gladys has all the attention. Pandora has no friends until, Norton, Newberry, shy and quiet himself, finds himself attracted to her. A sweet little friendship begins to ripen into real mutual love, when Gladys suddenly has come across every time they see each other.

TWO WILLS
Chapter 21
Those who are interested in Pandora probably know already that in this episode between Gladys and herself, she was bound to lose. She lost from the moment that Gladys entered the field, she lost. Indeed by the very fact that in the beginning she began to win—to win, Norton, that is.

For Gladys had an overpowering personality. She was big, buxom, full of vitality, incapable of very fine or very delicate feelings, but good natured, mostly generous and of a most determined will.

When Jim said she began to take an interest in Norton because he was the only boy she ever met who seemed to take no interest in her, he showed extraordinary intelligence. She almost confessed as much to her mother.

"I asked Norton to supper Saturday," she said. "He'll be over when he's through work and will stay on for the party."

"Why do you want to bother with him?" Mrs. Nicholson asked grumpily. "She did not want an extraneous person coming for the evening and the necessity of making refreshments. At the best, her father in the early Spring was not very easy."

"If you must ask someone, why not Jesse?"

"I don't like Jesse," her daughter answered.

"Well, you don't like Norton," Jeannette, you didn't. Besides he never paid much attention to you while Jesse—"

"I know. That's just why I'm going to show him!"

Mrs. Nicholson accepted this as a legitimate part of her daughter's all conquering personality.

She ventured a slight objection later, while they were at work in the dining room.

"Don't you think Norton was taking a shine to Pandora?" He came around to see her in town from time to time. Gladys answered complacently. "He really came to see."

STEWED PRUNES AND APRICOTS—Use equal amounts of prunes and apricots, cook slowly, over night and cook together slowly until tender. This makes an unusual and delicious combination.

Prune Tart—Delicious prune tart are made by filling pastry shells with the prune pulp and topping with whipped cream. A little heavier mixture may be used—about a cupful and a half of prune pulp to two egg whites and a teaspoonful of lemon juice beaten in with the prunes. The prune pulp may be piled on squares of plain cake or used as filling for layer cake and the top covered with whipped cream. The cake should be served immediately and not allowed to stand after the prunes are added.

SUGGESTION To Save Molasses—First measure cup in which it is to be measured, and every drop will run out.

omize with a view to the feasting during the holidays, to say nothing of the last minute Christmas gifts that must be saved out of the household money.

Stewed Prunes—Prunes are so easy to cook right that it takes work to cook them wrong. They should first be carefully washed, then put to soak over night in enough water to cover. In the morning place over a very low flame—adding more water if necessary—and let simmer very gently until tender. Some cooks claim that prunes need no further sweetening, as they contain a high percentage of sugar, but to my mind a little sugar is needed to bring out the natural sweetness. Add, say, a quarter or half a cup of sugar to the pound and a pinch of salt, simmer a few minutes longer and they are ready to serve. A little lemon or orange peeling or a small stick of cinnamon may be added to the prunes when cooking.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am very much worried and don't know what to do. I have been writing to a boy and he has refused to marry me. I have been making preparations to be married, but in the last letter he wrote some very cruel things which I did not mean. After I sent the letter I could see my mistake. I waited four weeks and then wrote and told him if he was going to write to me once for I intended to do for a short while. When that brought no answer I saw my mistake. I have to give in and admit myself in the wrong. I am sure that you have no objection to my writing to you. We are both old enough to give up our silly ways.

What would you advise me to do? I would like to have him know I am sorry but I am afraid to write the third letter for fear he would think I was running after him.

BLUE EYES.

You have loved for a selfish way and taken cruel enjoyment in your power to hurt the very one you loved you. Since you are in the wrong, I would advise you to write a third letter admitting that you made a mistake and that you have killed his love for you by your cruelty, but if he will reply to your letter. Let this be a lesson and in the future try to protect one you love from injury instead of deliberately trying to injure it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me of a good bleach that can be used on the hair? I am sure that you have no objection to my writing to you. We are both old enough to give up our silly ways.

What would you advise me to do? I would like to have him know I am sorry but I am afraid to write the third letter for fear he would think I was running after him.

BLUE EYES.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please suggest some inexpensive Christmas gifts for girls of the ages of 13 to 15. Also suggest some Christmas gifts for men and women teachers.

BLUE EYES.

Fin linen handkerchiefs could be made with little expense and they would be appropriate for young girls and for men and women teachers. You might also string beads for the young girls. Another thing which would please a teacher, either man or woman, is a bowl of narcissus bulbs in bud. If they are started at once they ought to be in bud by Christmas time.

a purple haze settled over the pond. The trout were leaping here and there for the moths, mosquitoes, dragon flies and other flies that were foolishly flying over the water. Ted and Ned began casting—Ned's line made a mighty splash which sent Ted into a fit of laughter. "Take off the sinker!" he cried. "The flies must settle lightly on the surface."

"But there's no weight to it then and I can't cast," protested his cousin Ned.

"You don't cast with weight. You snap it out like a whip," explained Ted. He was so busy watching Ned do this that he forgot his own line. He cast twice, three times and then there was a splash and a tug and Ned had hooked a two-pounder.

"Here's our dinner," said the boys when they had four fish.

"And we've got about $2 worth of flies out of 15 cents worth of plain hooks," said Ned.

"It's easy if you make them this way. Try it."

STEWED PRUNES AND APRICOTS—Use equal amounts of prunes and apricots, cook slowly, over night and cook together slowly until tender. This makes an unusual and delicious combination.

Prune Tart—Delicious prune tart are made by filling pastry shells with the prune pulp and topping with whipped cream. A little heavier mixture may be used—about a cupful and a half of prune pulp to two egg whites and a teaspoonful of lemon juice beaten in with the prunes. The prune pulp may be piled on squares of plain cake or used as filling for layer cake and the top covered with whipped cream. The cake should be served immediately and not allowed to stand after the prunes are added.

omize with a view to the feasting during the holidays, to say nothing of the last minute Christmas gifts that must be saved out of the household money.

Stewed Prunes—Prunes are so easy to cook right that it takes work to cook them wrong. They should first be carefully washed, then put to soak over night in enough water to cover. In the morning place over a very low flame—adding more water if necessary—and let simmer very gently until tender. Some cooks claim that prunes need no further sweetening, as they contain a high percentage of sugar, but to my mind a little sugar is needed to bring out the natural sweetness. Add, say, a quarter or half a cup of sugar to the pound and a pinch of salt, simmer a few minutes longer and they are ready to serve. A little lemon or orange peeling or a small stick of cinnamon may be added to the prunes when cooking.

REPARATIONS, WAR DEBTS SEPARATE

German Payments Have Nothing to Do With France's Debt to U. S. Attitude.

By DAVID LAWRENCE Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—Reparations from Germany and the amount that European countries shall pay America on the war debts owed to this country will be treated as absolutely separate and distinct questions.

This important fact revealed to this correspondent Wednesday sheds light on the course which the United States government will pursue in all formal or informal overtures for American help in the solution of Europe's tangled problems.

President Harding has let it be known that the government here is in a mood to extend its influence so as to help Europe, but it any responsible statesman in Europe has the idea that America will remit or cancel any part of the allied war debt, in exchange for some adjustment in Europe where-by France agrees to accept a lower sum from Germany, she is mistaken.

Great Britain agrees to cancel a portion of the French debt to England.

such an impression is entirely wrong. America stands ready to use her influence in whatever way seems best but certain fundamentals must be understood at the outset. The view here may be summarized as follows:

First—The amount of money Germany can pay France is a question of facts and figures. Nobody is suggesting—and least of all the United States—that Germany shall pay less than her capacity to pay.

Second—Even if France and Great Britain didn't owe the United States a cent and asked for American advice in solving the reparation tangle, the advice would be the same, namely that the Germans should pay to the limit of their capacity, and that is a question of fact to be determined.

Third—The American government under the present administration of President Wilson expressed through Secretaries of the Treasury Houston and Glass the view that the capacity of Germany to pay was separate and distinct from the question of allied indebtedness to the United States. Every effort to tie up these two questions has been resisted by American officials in the last three years and the present administration will continue to do the same, placing America on an absolutely consistent basis. The fact that the two administrations agree so entirely in offered as convincing proof that American sentiment is not divided.

Not in Harding's Power Fourth—The European powers who are thinking of asking America to make some reduction on allied indebtedness—if indeed the press reports reflect such a purpose on the part of the European government—must bear in mind that the adjustment of the allied debt is not within the realm of the executive here any more but is in the hands of congress, which body delegated to the funding commission certain powers of negotiation but with certain limits which make it impossible to reduce the allied debt without bringing the matter before congress in the form of a treaty requiring a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Whether American sentiment some day will favor cancellation or reduction of the debt is an open question—and anybody can have his own predilection as to what the situation will be—but as for any agreement being reached to reduce the allied debt before Jan. 2, when the premiers meet again, the thought is wholly outside the range of possibility.

Start at Wrong End Fifth—The European governments are starting at the wrong end of the dilemma if they think a reduction of allied debt on the part of the United States will help them. What is most desired here is that the European governments fix their attention on Germany's capacity to pay and when once that is fixed there will be no more controversy. People are looking ahead at the suggestion that France should agree to a lesser payment from Germany. This would be giving up on the part of France of something she could never collect or hope to get. If France were to get everything Germany is actually able to pay, the United States government believes that is all she can ask or expect. If this government loses any part in the discussion it will be to point that out and get an agreement on that one fundamental. After that it will be time enough to determine what is the capacity of France to pay her debts to Great Britain or to America, and possibly the American people will wish to consider the whole situation in the light of unspun facts concerning France's capacity to pay her debts to America.

Disfavor Dismemberment Sixth—It must be clearly understood that the United States is absolutely convinced that the dismemberment of Germany because of non-payment of theoretical sums to France would be looked upon with disfavor in America and as the certain breeding of another great war in Europe. Every influence of the United States government will be exerted to prevent such a turn of affairs as might bring about a dismemberment of Germany.

The public may read between the lines of the foregoing that the United States government still holds to the view expressed by American commissioners at the Paris peace conference, namely that the sums France is agreeing on are altogether too high and can never be paid by Germany. Instead of offering to remit certain French debts, the belief prevails that a much more logical method of approach would be to get an agreement on what Germany can really pay.

American Representation America doesn't need to be represented on a reparation commission to help determine such a state of facts. The data is available already. All that is needed is the expression of an opinion on the part of the United States in conformity with the experts of the allied powers as to what Germany can pay. Once that is out of the way, America will view the European situation in a new light and will extend every proper influence and aid to help ease the economic burdens which now enmesh European states.

The idea of a five or six power pact to guarantee the peace of Europe is a necessary corollary to any readjustment of the whole European situation, and the president of the United States will in due course suggest such a solution and possibly agree to submit that kind of a pact to the American senate if it is evident that by a new treaty some of the present causes of instability can be removed.
